Just kidding. Weird bullshit is better than hopeless, right? Ammonia burn is likely. I think I'm at the point now where I'm still numb about a lot of things that people care a lot about, but I've decided to focus the little feeling I have toward a few things and a few people, and that's making it easier. However, large numbers of infected fish are cause for concern since slow growth, sterility, stunted populations, and massive fish kills may result from extensive diseases and parasite infestations.

Alot of the problems occur when the new water did not match the old water in temp all happened so suddenly and I wish I knew why.
